Fortinet and F5 shares fall about 20% after their results

Upwind raises $400 million and stays independent. Our view: large vendors keep adding AI-agent controls to products they already sell.

RESULTS

Fortinet beats, then falls 20% in a day

- Fortinet says third-quarter revenue grew 20% to $2.08 billion. It raised its 2026 revenue outlook.
- It lowered its 2026 service-revenue outlook to $5.150 billion to $5.170 billion, from $5.18 billion to $5.22 billion, SiliconANGLE reports.
- Bloomberg Intelligence, quoted by Yahoo Finance, says the cut "implies lower attach rates" for bundled networking and secure-edge products sold with Fortinet firewalls.
- Shares fell 20.1% on 29 October, by our calculation. Calcalist says the sell-off pulled down Palo Alto Networks, CrowdStrike and Zscaler.

RESULTS

F5 guides to slower growth; Tenable and Microsoft report

- F5 says fourth-quarter revenue grew 13% to $917 million. It guided to 8% to 9% growth for its 2027 fiscal year.
- F5 shares fell 20.4% on 28 October, by our calculation.
- Tenable says revenue grew 9.5% to $276.4 million. Its shares rose 6.3% on 29 October, by our calculation.
- Microsoft says agents in its registry grew over 30% in a quarter to more than 50 million, about the figure it gave in September. Its results release has no security revenue line.

FUNDING

Upwind raises $400 million and stays independent

- Upwind says it closed a $400 million Series C at a $3.8 billion valuation, led by Bessemer Venture Partners.
- TechCrunch, citing a person familiar with Upwind, says Datadog "didn't offer a premium above the $3.8 billion valuation", so Upwind stayed independent.
- Datadog has made no statement. Upwind secures cloud systems and AI agents while they run.

DATA SECURITY

Cyera: $20 billion talks reported

- Cyera has held "preliminary discussions" with investors at a $20 billion valuation, Calcalist reports, citing The Information. Cyera declined to comment.
- Cyera was valued at $12 billion in June.
- Cyera says it achieved "FedRAMP Class D Certified status", formerly called FedRAMP High. The US government register still lists no agency authorizations.

DATA SECURITY

Microsoft delays data loss prevention for non-Microsoft apps

- Microsoft now plans general availability in late December (previously late October). It first planned early September. The feature is still in preview.
- It covers Google Workspace, Box, Dropbox, Salesforce, ServiceNow, Amazon Web Services and Cisco Webex.
- Proofpoint joined Microsoft's email security program. Customers can see Proofpoint detections inside Microsoft Defender.
- Why it matters: specialist data-loss vendors keep this opening for two more months.

AGENT SECURITY

Large vendors add AI-agent controls to products they already sell

- CrowdStrike extended its managed threat hunting to AI agents monitored by its Falcon Guardian product. It says a gateway "on its own" cannot see what agents do on the machine.
- Cisco open-sourced Project Quarry, rules for spotting AI-agent attacks hidden in harmless-looking steps.
- Cato Networks launched a new endpoint client that sends only AI traffic to Cato. Island introduced a browser for AI agents. Neither gave an availability date.
- Our view: this adds to the evidence against our prediction that securing agents' tool calls becomes a separate market.
